

Stop Telling Fibs! – Ideas for Learning

English

Play this fun Rhyming Bingo Game. Shuffle the cards and call them one at a time. Can your child spot the rhyming word on their bingo board?

After reading the story, use this What Happened Next? activity to encourage your child to write a wild story!

Help your child to recognise rhyming words with this simple but fun Rhyming Sorting Activity.

Cut out the words and your child can sort them into the right columns.

Use these Stick Puppets to retell the story. Can your child remember the order of the animals?

Can they remember what the adults keep saying to Tomek?

Maths

Practise counting to 10 with this I Spy and Count activity. Great for supporting children with counting different groups of objects.

Confident with counting to 10 and looking for a challenge? Why not try the I Spy and Count to 20!

Support your child in recognising repeating patterns with these Repeating Patterns Peg Cards. You could use clothes pegs, sticky tack, counters or just get your child to point at the picture that completes the pattern. Can they make their own?

Find lots of pairs of socks. Lay them together in their pairs and use them to help your child to practise counting in twos.

Extra Activities

Have a child that enjoys colouring? These adorable Colouring Pages feature the animals from the story and are a great way to continue your child's learning! Can they name all of the animals?

Fancy burning off some energy? These Animal Moves Posters are a fun way to get children exercising and moving around. You could find some animal noises on the Internet to accompany your child's animal antics!

No Printer? No Problem!

- Can you find any objects in your home that rhyme? Make a list of them!
- Talk about telling lies and whether it is ever OK. Is it a good thing to always tell the truth?
- Play 'Pass the Rhyme' – take turns saying words that rhyme until you can't think of any more!
- Research and find out some information about the animals in the story. You could look in a book or online.
- Have a go at retelling the story. Can you and your child add any actions to help remember it? Maybe you could make noises or movement to remember the order of the animals!
